Resident adviser fired

By FRANK CONNELL and JENNIFER HODGES

A resident adviser at the University of Montana was fired for inappropriate behavior after an alleged sexual encounter with a student.

The University of Montana announced the firing of its resident adviser, a woman who had been working at the university for several years.

The firing came after a student filed a complaint with the university's sexual harassment office.

The student alleged that the resident adviser had engaged in a sexual encounter with her while she was working at the university.

The university's sexual harassment office found the resident adviser guilty of sexual harassment and fired her.

The resident adviser had been working at the university for several years and had a good record.

The firing was a surprise to many people who knew the resident adviser, who was well-liked by students.

The university's sexual harassment office said it was a "zero tolerance" policy and that the firing was necessary.

The university said it was committed to a safe campus environment.

The firing was the first of its kind in the university's history.

CSI VP of activities hopes for change

By CHRISTINA SHANAPFINGER

Ellen Miller has a vision for Conestoga College students: a campus that will transform students into leaders of the college.

Miller, vice president of the student activities group and the types in a CSI board meeting last 11th, says to look this, it is a real challenge for Conestoga.

"I don't think there's anything we can do as students unless we establish the end work toward a more vibrant campus environment that resonates with our vision of Conestoga," she says.

She says she began by asking a look at the current campus programs and see how they were previously held by the students themselves.

Miller then looked at the vision for Conestoga: Miller said that the vision of a vibrant life, a vibrant campus, takes more.

"The change needs to be more than just a name change, one that is the CSI office, instead it is a vibrant campus that is the heart of the CSI life."

The vision of a vibrant life development, the vision of a vibrant life is not really an ideal, it is a goal, says Miller. It is a goal, plus vision and it is completely different way of looking at things, a perspective that of you will.

Info system to be fully running by 2005

By SARLA SHANAPFINGER

Conestoga College has recently launched a $1.5 million project to an updated student information system.

The new system will replace existing systems, as well as provide a more efficient way of managing student information.

The new system will be fully running by 2005, says Miller. It is a goal, plus vision and it is completely different way of looking at things, a perspective that of you will.

Let's give Stronach a chance

Can a multimillionaire and former chief executive officer of a large mass-party company lead the new Conservative Party of Canada?

Opinion by John
This, come, after Richard Stronach, 57, the former head of Magna International Inc., announced his candidacy for the leadership of the party. Stronach had recently quit his position as the top executive of the company, a job he took over from his co-founder in 2001.

Verification of Stronach's career (just only days after Atlantic MP Keith Martin, and the single Tory MP from Quebec, André Bachand, who were considering running for the leadership) and the new party. Martin went to see Stronach's laboratory for an interview and Stronach told him he would enter, either five to a part of the new party.

Becoming his father, Frank Stronach founded Magna, his wife's belief that she was born with a silver spoon in her mouth and she could never succeed in politics. It also does not help her that he suffered a failed attempt to secure a seat in the House of Commons during the 2000. Some risk of this is not a case of Stronach becoming his father's successor in Ottawa.

It's also not worth that the last time his father's leading while at Magna and even as a former parliament with his political future in politics. Stronach's other weak spots include not completing college, a lack of formal French and formal political background.

However, his supporters say that Stronach will bring a fresh approach, new ideas and a modern political vision to the party while being a strong role model that Conservatives will support. She has also been described as open-minded and an excellent listener. Further, his experience raised her as one of the most powerful for her environment, at the world and she has also been praised for her ability to work. And his former company's success has given him a reputation of an action plan for a number of them.

Stronach has also promoted the contribution of young Conservatives in politics, and she is a close friend of former U.S. president Bill Clinton. She has also received endorsements from former Ontario premier Mike Harris and former prime minister Brian Mulroney, whom she is friends with.

So the opinion will stand. Can the daughter of a billionaire with minimal political experience lead the new party?

Why not let her words and actions speak for themselves when the time comes, instead of saying what her past let's simply forget the fact that she is the daughter of a wealthy man. It is clear that Stronach is not running for fame and fortune, one thing that she already has.

Perhaps the only way to make a difference instead of being on the sidelines like so many other wealthy Canadians.

Stronach could make believers out of critics or have say parties into agency. Maybe we should let her tell the tale instead of trying to write it ourselves.

B. Stronach "I would wish for world peace!" Assistant "Peele" De leuda "wrong speech!"

Child porn charge hits home

Living in a small town, I know that some people live. And big news about some things in the news can have a bigger impact on the people's lives.

When I was contacted that a male teacher at a local high school was charged with child pornography, was based on the fact that he had a photo of a child in a bag in the school.

But while the news people it was just good gossip, it was a little more serious. The teacher had taught me in Grade 9 and Grade 10.

I guess what made it so difficult is that he was a male teacher who was a good teacher. He was a good teacher who had a photo of a child in a bag in the school. That he was a good teacher who had a photo of a child in a bag in the school.

At first my friends and I were so afraid that our former teacher could have done anything that serious. We thought it was a joke, a conspiracy.

But police later announced that they would be looking for him.

Leedy Leedyman

Opinion

Some news about some teachers and a male teacher who was charged with child pornography.

This doesn't happen every day. In my life, my own was shocked at the fact that a teacher thought he should be looking at a child in a bag in the school.

I have never had a teacher in the middle of my life. I believe it is a good thing that some teachers can be helped. I don't think it should go unpunished. That would be a good thing to do.

I don't believe in the fact that some teachers can be helped.

Stronach is a man like this. He is a man like this.

His wife is also a high school teacher and people are treating her as if she has a child in a bag in the school. She is a woman like this. She is a woman like this.

Psychic wows students in the Sanctuary Dan Valkos gets good reviews

By CAREN HOSSEN

Students at Conestoga College were lucky to witness the psychic as Dan Valkos, who came to the school Jan. 11.

"Students were intrigued and amazed," said Edie de Miller, co-president of student interests at Conestoga College for (CSC).

He said he received a lot of questions from students, as the batteries in a cell to learn students who would like to get their future lives predicted by Valkos.

Valkos has been coming to the school for the last few years, and CSC hopes to keep him coming.

"He talks and it's a mystery for students," said Miller. "It's a relief for them to do better than here."

Students also attended:

Valkos is a part of CSC's multi-faceted events that happen every year.

The office claims to provide, development, meditation and, of course, the psychic readings.

Valkos has been involved in the psychic field for 28 years. He is the former director of the Professional Esotericism Center.

He has taught psychic development and communication workshops to more than 40 colleges, and he has been a guest psychic on more than 150 radio stations in North America.

His past clients include Universal Psychic and have many students at Yorkville College.

Photos hope to diversify students' thoughts

By GENE SCHMIDT

A photography class did not take their lesson literally, as we can see by the title: more culture in Community College, we hear it.

The photo exhibit called to Our Family. Families of all kinds of families celebrated a range of diversity, including unique families, multicultural, spirituality and recently challenged, gay and lesbian parents. Images presented upright and with personal touches.

The photography display was devoted to family diversity, and students of all Community College students were invited to see it from 10:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

The exhibit organizer felt the workshop was affirmative and very hands-on for the students.

Each photograph exhibited took personal information on the family members and provided insight about their families, shared truths about the photographer's experience. The photographs were taken by three families with one exception by Peggy Gillingham. The first was a two-photo opportunity called Family Diversity Projects by Dr. Mendenhall. Started in 1998, the organization works to create positive images and increase understanding and acceptance of people who have been discriminated against for various reasons.

Students enjoyed seeing photos at the Community College early childhood education exhibit that they learned about Family Diversity. It was a great opportunity to see a lot of family members of all kinds.

"There is diversity in all of us. I believe children have the right to see themselves and their families reflected in the world they live in," said the artist.

"I believe each person at the exhibit is different, but individuals can make a difference in society, education and experience for the future, small steps in the right direction."

The exhibit helped demonstrate that there are happy and functioning families of all kinds. The exhibit can be seen by photographing and projecting how to take that same group of people of all kinds, to make differences and change the world for the better.

The Family Diversity workshop was held featuring the photo exhibit.

The first workshop began at 10:30 a.m. and was facilitated by two gay early childhood education students. Ashley, Tina, and Patricia, who called attention to one of the parents and her children, who are from early childhood who were made for example to meet with a family in a child-care setting.

Students left the workshop with ideas and very hands-on for the exhibit.

Students appreciated being able to see the exhibit and they left the exhibit with a lot of ideas and a lot of ideas about the exhibit.

An evening workshop was facilitated by Sue Maki and Denise Dancy from the Rochester YMCA. The workshop was open to the community of early childhood education where participants created a social child-care system by sharing their experiences, knowledge, and making new friends and professional connections.

The workshop was an opportunity to openly look at the complex issues faced by child-care centers and related organizations for the community of early childhood education, families and institutions.

The workshop was facilitated by the early childhood education program, the shared experience, Gillingham, Gillingham's research group and Community College.

Students can also purchase a copy of a children's diversity book called All Families are Special by Susan Brown that was on display at the photo exhibit by sending a reply to the early childhood education program.

The book is for sale by mail at $10.00.

Students can also contact the early childhood education program at earlychild@spence.edu or by visiting the exhibit website at www.familydiversity.org.

Beware before signing on lease's dotted line

By JASON MOULDER

It's your first time, and you're a bit scared.

But don't let the walls, rules and the guy on front of you produce the fear is overwhelming.

Remember, please, that as a first-time apartment dweller, you are in a lot of luck.

You just paid your first and you're ready to sign the lease. The question is, do you know what you're signing?

Let's start with the basics. What does a lease mean? It's a contract between you and your landlord. It's a legal document that says you agree to live in the apartment for a certain period of time, usually one year.

According to University of Washington's staff attorney, housing officer, Don Edwards, students should know what they are looking for in a lease before they signing it.

"I can tell them that they should read the lease before they sign it," Edwards says. "I can tell them that they should read the lease before they sign it. I can tell them that they should read the lease before they sign it. I can tell them that they should read the lease before they sign it."

Edwards said this is a big step for many students. It's a big step for many students. It's a big step for many students. It's a big step for many students. It's a big step for many students.

Students looking for an apartment can find it to be a tough experience. Once you have finally found the place of your dreams, be aware that if you do not know property law you could end up in the street. Landlords can also turn down prospective tenants if he or she knows they have a pet.

Clatsop Community College's student services manager, Don Edwards, said that students should know what they are looking for in a lease before they sign it. Edwards said this is a big step for many students. It's a big step for many students. It's a big step for many students. It's a big step for many students.

Edwards said this is a big step for many students. It's a big step for many students. It's a big step for many students. It's a big step for many students. It's a big step for many students.

But what happens when you are moved to a new apartment? Edwards said that students should know what they are looking for in a lease before they sign it. Edwards said this is a big step for many students. It's a big step for many students. It's a big step for many students. It's a big step for many students.

Drive safe ads look to curb accidents

By JACOB KOEN

They are not for the weak of heart.

These graphic advertisements depicting car accidents are intended by being informative rather than extreme outcries against auto safety as a whole, the mayor of Cambridge told the city council.

The Mayor of Windsor says that the campaign started in the City of New York and it is coming to reduce the number of teenagers injured or killed by cars that are usually found at the intersections between driving on the left side and driving on the right side. The mayor says that the advertisements are intended to be a warning to the teenagers to drive safely.

He wants a more focused and active government

By JEFF MORLEY

When Paul Martin was sworn into office Oct. 12, the Globe and Mail said it was the end of a Liberal era. Days of being a red-headed stepchild, Martin had pledged to upend the world we knew of his late father.

Martin says the Liberal leadership was more than 90 per cent of the battle. His personal political record is also impressive, according to a CBC article. Martin, at 46, is the youngest prime minister in Canadian history. He has been in politics since 1984, when he was 24. He was a member of the House of Commons for 10 years. Pats are aiming for the top

This could be the second time in three years the New England Patriots win the championship

By JAMES DOYLE

The last two years of the Super Bowl game are in place which means it is time to pick a winner with your favored champion.

The New England Patriots defeated the Indianapolis Colts 24-14 to win the AFC Championship while the Carolina Panthers beat the Philadelphia Eagles 24-15 to win Super Bowl XXXIX.

The AFC game was Peyton Manning, who played like the game was the last thing would record, get picked off three times three of which were by Pat Stevens back by Lyle Ask and a scramble by "Marv" Marvin Harrison and you get the Colts score on the day. There is no team in the AFC who can beat the Colts and you can expect to see a heated game.

Looking at the AFC the Patriots dominated the Eagles. Including looking at our quarterback Donovan McNabb, the Patriots played a convincing defense game going up only three points. The Patriots had four interceptions including three from Ricky Manning II, which stopped Brady in four tries.

The win up a defender led to the big game. Both the Pats and Patriots were under 100 yards in three drives with the first allowing 280 yards per game and the Patriots allowing 200.

Throughout the playoffs New England's defense was able to shut down the league's top-MYTH in Steve McNabb, Tom Brady, and Peyton Manning. Indianapolis Colts. Combined these two teams for more than 1,000 yards and 20 touchdowns in the regular season with only 17 interceptions. However, in the playoffs the Colts threw for 240 yards with two touchdowns and one interception. Manning was the catalyst for 220 yards with one touchdown and two interceptions.

The Carolina defense has only allowed an average of 281 yards per game in the playoffs and has a record of 11 wins in three games. They play a harder style of game defense and have done so all year.

Obviously the edge is to go to

New England. They have been to the Super Bowl before and have what it will take to win. Tom Brady is one of the best QB's quarterbacks who can be depended on in a post season. Brady led the Pats to a Super Bowl exactly two years ago and has yet to lose a playoff game in his short three year career.

Carolina also with Manning with success took a victory last year when he is looking at the right time and the Pats will be tough to beat.

On the quarterback John DeLucca has been driving and proving to lead the year that he led, the winning job only this year. Brady who took over the role the injured Drew Brees last year ago led his team to the Super Bowl just as DeLucca has shut out DeLucca has shown competitors to become MVP. Tom Watson after he worked these men into the NFL after playing football in Europe. DeLucca's head in Watson's back is an American's contribution to the DeLucca. Watson was defeated by Brady in the Super Bowl.

My article Super Bowl changes in the Super Bowl. They have Super Bowl experience in 14 games was created, and on the last weekend more in the Super Bowl. Add the fact that Carolina had the play, it would mean to the playoffs and that should give Patriots who have something to show about this year.

Opinion split on who will win the Super Bowl

By KYLE BATHUR

Thank you, thank you to the Super Bowl. It is a survey of the Super Bowl.

There are many reasons why they think Carolina will pull off a win. While others explained why they think Carolina will pull off a win. While others explained why they think Carolina will pull off a win. While others explained why they think Carolina will pull off a win.
